

Catherine Jordan Workshop March 2017

An exciting opportunity awaits us here in IRC. Catherine Jordan, who has achieved EGA's Mastercraftsman certification in counted thread, crewel, and color and design, has agreed to lecture and teach for us in mid-March 2017. Nancy Deibner and I reviewed several teachers' resumes and chose Catherine because she teaches painting/dyeing fabrics as well as counted thread and surface embroidery. With this class each of us will learn to paint on fabric AND stitch a very personal map of Florida.

During our March 20, 2017 regular meeting Catherine will present her Powerpoint program on needlework maps as well as one that shows a lot of different finishes of pieces that are painted. Then on March 21-22 Catherine will guide us through the creation of our own counted thread and surface-embroidered map of Florida. There will be pre-work of stitching the shorelines of Florida (with guidance from several of our chapter members) so that actual class time can be devoted to painting the fabric and stitching the details of the map.

Catherine says that she starts each map with a regular atlas map so that the coastlines and location of cities are accurate. She has asked that we help her design the Florida map by suggesting historic locations for placement on the map. If you would like to contribute information or places for the map, even pictures of appealing Florida maps, contact me and I will relay that information to her. This can be an opportunity for all of us to participate in preparing the map even if we are not able to take the class.
